Little children go through any number of emotional hassles as they stumble their way through life, without being burdened with explanations why they have two mothers or two fathers. No matter how willing and devoted these couples may be, they are not a substitute for a Mother and a Father.

Although I believe that many of these same sex couples are genuine, it seems to have become quite trendy for gay couples to have a child to bring up as some sort of statement or status symbol.

Put the child first.

In too many situations, we are being dictated to by minorities. We can't just keep changing our laws for a vocal minority. The rule of the majority – its called democracy.
