Dear Health Committee representative

I'm concerned that a baby is not considered a human life by some strong-minded people wanting to dispose of the consequences of falling pregnant when it doesn't suit them.

A baby is sacred human life, whether it is born or unborn. Whether it is 4 weeks post-conception or 4 weeks post-birth. We hold dolphins and little frogs sacred in our community; how about our children?

People are putting pressure on you to accept no moral obligation towards our vulnerable and young. Please resist this pressure, as the consequences are terrible – an abortion is a birth where the baby is killed either in utero or just after it is born. How can this bill be even considered for legal justification? To take a full-term pregnant mother and give her the right to say, "Kill, no no, I mean, 'abort' my baby this week so it cannot be born next week," is a travesty. How tragic it is that we have to even think about such heartless, unloving, evil and selfish measures as these?

What right does any doctor, nurse, mother or father have over taking the life of a pre-born baby, when it is its own person, with a body, name, spirit, genetic code and personality different to anybody on earth?

No animal on earth aborts their young, yet humans, in their crazy thinking, believe there are no consequences of abortion and that an adult can have the right to kill their baby because it pleases them to do so, whenever they want.

People are in prison for the manslaughter of killing babies in car crashes or altercations. Such people need to be freed and compensated for if parents today can somehow strongarm you for the rights to intentionally and legally kill their unborn child instead.

The key issue here is that people do not see that having sex needs responsible boundaries placed around it, and this is the reason why God has called for marital sex only.

The consequences of sex, including pre-marital sex or adultery, are designed to procreate.

If people do not take responsibility to stop a pregnancy (ideally by not having sex outside marriage in the first place), then it's not their responsibility or right either to choose whether their unborn baby should live or not, no matter what they say in this bill.

Like protecting the environment, it's every person's responsibility and civil right to protect the vulnerable, those that don't have a voice for themselves, and particularly our own human offspring, as the Bible says that each youngster conceived has a soul, just like we do.

Please, please, strongly reject this Abortion Bill in Queensland. Please stand up for what is morally and ethically right. And please don't be fooled by those who think they don't have to reap what they sow – all abortionists will do so in due course.

Many thanks for reading through my plea and taking the courage to stand against people who want to brainwash your conscience into thinking a baby is just like an unwanted kitten or puppy that can be disposed of.

With my regards

Sylvia Waddell
