Does Rob Pyne secret wish he'd been aborted? I was adopted and my mother considered abortion but it was illegal and that helped discourage her from killing me. I have been diagnosed with 2 terminal diseases that make life harder for me but my greatest joy is to make a contribution to the lives of others. That abortion...killing unborn children, can take place almost at the whim of a woman who is going through a wild hormonal swinging emotional roller coaster season of a life and then thereby plunge herself into the often suicidal despair of guilt and shame. That is no answer.

Fathers are real people too! I remember when my wife and I lost a baby mid term, I was devastated. Does any one care in this age rampant suicide of young men how they feel about having the life of their child torn alive from the body of a woman with whom the vast majority of cases obviously shared a time of tender intimacy.

Killing more babies more quickly does not serve our society any purpose. It serves a society that is breaking it's neck and the necks of children to become "genderless". We are spending millions to create in test tubes often genetically compromised children even at times condemning those children to fatherlessness for women who crave the natural fulfilment of motherhood. Partly because we are killing 100 thousand babies that are unwanted. One reason some of those women can't conceive naturally is that they were complicit in killing their own baby before and are now both physically and emotionally damaged. It is so messed up.

It is immoral insane madness.

Kill the Bill not the babies.
