Hello parliament,

I am writing this as an Australian citizens who is greatly distressed over the possibility of legalising the slaughter of innocent babies that have no means of protecting themselves. With advances in medical science which shows that babies are able to experience pain through the means of abortion this bill can only be described as inhumane for the sake of it.

Where do we stop? When did we decide and become worthy of deciding someone's death and how they will die? How can a innocent baby be killed for the sake of it when we have a legal system that shelters and provides food for serial killers and other likeminded criminals?

Playing gods to discard our humanity? Deciding they don't deserve a chance to live in this world?

That baby that is killed could be the next step for curing cancer, or a great humanitarian... but how would we ever know if we don't give them a chance.

Where would we be if our parents didn't want us and had us killed?

Where would we be as a country? What would a world like that look like?

I firmly protest against this inhumane bill because babies DO feel pain, that has been proven. They are ALIVE, that has been proven.. So don't say you didn't know if you vote in favour of this bill,

Nathan.S
