To whom it may concern

I support the changes proposed to the Nature Conservation Act to encourage appropriate EcoTourism facilities within the National Parks. Clearly, the appropriateness is subjective and the operators will need the funds to compete and operate to a high standard and have some track record.

My I suggest that revenue and profit share from the same be ring-fenced to provide additional resources to current funding specifically to benefit the National Park within which each facility when up and running, is located. To see tangible benefits from these initiatives that fund additional rangers, guides, conservation projects will win some of the doubters over in time.
