Dear Sir/Madam,

I wish to voice my concern about Sexually Explicit Outdoor Advertising. I think that it is emotionally damaging especially to children. At the very least desensitising.

Much of the advertising reflects only the immoral section of society. For instance one billboard reads 'Sin City' on the Gold Coast. That is labelling that city as not being a good place for average people, and families in particular to visit. It is in opposition to the push for tourists from All places and cultures. I have spoken to tourists who were offended by what they see and were concerned for the children they had with them.

Thank you for reading my concerned comment.

Yours Sincerely,

Valma M Lord
