Subject: Inquiry into outdoor advertising

Dear Sir/Madam

Please consider my opinion an input into the inquiry into outdoor advertising standards.

I am married 46 years and have a family of 5 adult children and 12 grandchildren.

I have seen one of these sexually suggestive bill boards on Sherwood Rd Sherwood. Personally I thought they were in bad taste similar to a crude sexually explicit joke that might be shown after 10pm on our TV stations and would never attract a G rating.

I would also consider that such provocative roadside billboards do increase the risk of a vehicle crash. This is likely where the driver and passengers are inebriated and in that state might provoke behaviour causing the driver to act without due care and attention in driving.

I believe that as a matter of public policy the content of all billboards visible from a public road should be subject to the well established norms that are used in classifying public films and TV presentations.
