To the Health and Community Services Committee

Thank you for taking the time to consider outdoor advertising, particularly its effect on children when sexually explicit.

As a mother who has lived in Queensland all her life, I wish to communicate my support of having all outdoor advertising G rated.

We can protect our children from seeing sexually explicit TV, movies and internet, magazines or games.

We can protect our vulnerable young people from listening to sexually explicit music.

We can keep our babies safe from predatory people.

But we can't stop them from seeing billboards, shop front advertising and the like, which introduce adult concepts, sexually objectify people, and harm their innocence.

Please restore the right of parents to raise our children in a way that protects their innocence.

Yours sincerely,

Lisa Hechtli
