Dear Queensland Government,

I am glad you are making this inquiry, as I am one who is concerned about what is put on public display. We do not need highly sexualised images for children of all ages to see. Children are embarrassed (if they are old enough) and their parents are embarrassed and sometimes have to try to explain why such crude images are there for all to see. If we care about our children then we not only need to protect them from physical danger, but also from having their minds exposed to moral degradation (which is what it is).

Thank you,
Brian.
