Submitter Comments:

It is with grief to learn babies are left to die after birth and that termination of pregnancies exists in the modern era. With the availability of up to date medical technology and resources to care for children, restoring them to full health and well-being, there is no valid reason for legality of abandoning children in this or any way. Therefore, this enquiry must decide for such a practice to cease immediately. Humanitarian cause demands for it and so does a civil society as is Australia. By and large, we are not the ones requiring or condoning this behaviour. On the contrary, families shape our core values. Thank you for opportunity to send feedback.
