SUBJECT: Medical treatment for survivors

I am asking that a baby born alive from a termination of pregnancy procedure will be given medical treatment.. Such a "survivor" deserves to live.

I think it is terrible that medical personnel should be instructed to leave such a child to die. This goes against every oath they took vowing to preserve life.

The mother does not want the child, so in reality she no longer has any say in the matter. She relinquished that when she signed the agreement for the operation.

Therefore that child may be adopted. I came across an organisation in another country which accepts unwanted babies. I know people who could start the same here in Queensland.

Yours respectfully,
Christine Hogkinson
