Public Submission by Gareth Llewellyn.

Allowing babies from failed abortions to die without medical assistance is reprehensible. Any baby should have a right to medical care, regardless of whether they are the result of a failed abortion. Allowing a baby to die alone and in pain is no different to aborting a child.

It is the government's responsibility to protect, vulnerable living babies. The argument that they are just a clump of cells no longer holds water after birth.

Failure to pass this legislation devalues life, abrogates the baby's right to care and life under international declaration of human rights, and is a sign of a sickness in society that needs addressing.

I urge you to show that this government valued human life by passing this legislation.

Hi. My name is Gareth and I am semi-retired.

Sincerely, Gareth Llewellyn
