Please don't forget these children. Many of them still may die but at least they will be cared for as every child should be.

Please pabcd the legislation to care for all children who are born alive.

I am a [REDACTED] who cares for elderly and disabled family members. I live in Townsville. I believe that all people are worthy of life, love and care. It doesn't matter what abcd, race or colour they are, whether they are physically or intellectually able or not, whether their family wants them or not, or what age they are. Those who are born alive, whether wanted or not, whether in a birth suite, at home, in a park or in an abortion room should have as much care as anyone else.

We live in a relatively rich country. Rich in land, resources, people, education, creativity, government and medical care. Surely we can care for all our children. Surely our government should legislate for all those born in Queensland to be cared for with as much medical care and love as we can provide.

If we don't do this, babies will continue to be left to die, without medical care, without human contact, without love.

Sincerely, [REDACTED]
