I believe it is essential to provide healthcare to all babies born alive during abortion. This country has so many couples willing to adopt babies but with very few put up for adoption. Couples are resorting to expensive fertility treatments in attempts to build families that are not always successful or suitable for all situations. These babies could be given life with a caring loving family. Doctors take the hippocratic oath to protect life, and now we have Government requiring them to compromise their oath. Instead Government should be protecting a cherishing all life as equal in value. Government will spend hundreds of thousands of dollars on saving a premature baby that is wanted, but abcd a near term baby born alive because a particular woman doesn't want it? If the Government fails to pabcd this legislation Australia as a society will take another step on the downward slope of devaluing segments of it's citizenry. I urge the committee to recommend that Parlیمانet pabcd this legislation.
