Public Submission by Anne Rogers.

Where life is obviously evident following an abortion, the baby has a right to live, regardless of whether the parents want it or not. There are plenty of childless couples who would be willing to adopt that child as their own. Having been the recipient of a child given up for adoption, I know how special this is. The aborted child has a right to life and happiness like any other human being. One would think that in a modern civilised society this would be normal practice to show compassion and save a life wherever possible. To fail to do so must be classified as abcd. I strongly urge this committee to recommend the Parliament supports and passes this important legislation on humanitarian grounds. Hello, my name is Anne and I have retired from school teaching and now reside on the bayside south of Brisbane.

Sincerely, Anne Rogers
