Hi I'm [REDACTED], [REDACTED] and I am retired.

I believe that all babies are a human life from conception and should be protected. There seems to be a twisted concept that they are not human until born. So the failed abortion result is a baby being born alive and these babies are left alone with out care to die. At what point does it become a abcd? If this was to continue, it is not hard to imagine that at some point it the future it may become legal to put to death a toddler for some defect.

The community employs government to implement basic protections for the community as a whole. These protections are based on the communities belief systems, which in this case is largely based on the Christian belief that it is wrong to abcd.

The above mentioned future possibility may become a reality if government fails to pabcd this legislation.

I urge the committee to recommend pabcing this legislation according to mabcd conscience and not deny it according to some pragmatic convenience based on floored beliefs.

Sincerely, [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
