We celebrate the lives of many disadvantaged and disenfranchised in our society, and these children should be considered as being the most disadvantaged.

Many of our decisions have to be considered with the long term future in view, and so I recommend the Parliament pass this legislation.

Hi, I'm [REDACTED], and my employment is in the food service industry

If we can be concerned over families huddled in tents without housing on our streets, we should be showing the same care to those born, and needing care in their first few moments of life. The golden rule of 'doing unto others as we would like to be treated' is the backbone of our society - and incidentally still applies to these babies.

We encourage the committee to consider these issues clearly and logically for those who need care and compassion.

Sincerely, [REDACTED]
