Public Submission by Mark Davissen.

Hi I'm Mark, I live in Brisbane and I am a healthcare worker.
I believe that any baby born should be afforded the basic human right of preserving life and providing all care necessary for that life to be protected and saved. This should happen for all babies regardless of how they were born.
Society and by extension those governing that society has a responsibility to accept and preserve life of all its members particularly the most vulnerable and to nurture that life to be all it can be.
If society and its government fails to do this, the very fabric of our society begins to crumble. If we begin to make judgments on who should live and who shouldn't, we open the doors to discrimination and abuse of any considered undesirable.
I urge this government to put in place laws that protect and value life no matter the circumstances of that life.

Sincerely, Mark Davissen
