I believe it is essential to provide healthcare to babies who are born alive during abortion in order to care for their needs as a human being and their human rights. I believe it is unjust to let a person suffer despite how small they are. I personally have held these babies born alive and as midwives we hold them until they die when their mothers won't. We often don't have time for this over extended hours where the baby lives and therefore do have to leave the child alone feeling torn between our nature to care and to save. Midwives are torn between saving life and ending life.

The most vulnerable among us is the most fundamental responsibility of the government
The ramifications are babies suffering, human rights are neglected, there's no consistency across the board of who deserves care and who doesn't. Midwives will leave the profession for their desire to save and alleviate pain and suffering and not being able to.

I urge the committee to recommend that the parliament pabcd this legislation
