The Queensland government should take measures to proudly uphold the highest level of healthcare for all Queenslanders, including those born alive during an abortion. If this amendment legislation is not passed, then not only do babies born alive during an abortion suffer, but the integrity of healthcare provided in Queensland hospitals suffers as a whole. I strongly urge the committee, please recommend that the Parliament pass this necessary legislation in order to proudly uphold the integrity of care provided in Queensland hospitals. Hi, I'm Jess, I live in Ipswich, Brisbane, and I am a full-time mother. Babies born alive during an abortion should not be left to die because i) they should have the basic human right to essential healthcare as much as any other baby born in Queensland, and ii), the high standard of services healthcare professionals must provide to all Queensland babies should not be compromised.

Sincerely, Jessica Hagemeyer
