Submitter Comments:

I don't believe any man/woman has the human right to determine who lives and dies based on any natural criteria. The act of taking a life may start today of the terminally ill and the next thing we'll be doing is moving the goal posts for other reasons. Abortion is a good example of moving the goal posts from a couple of weeks to fully developed yet unborn. Guys, the responsibility of giving and taking lives is too great to be in the hands of mankind! I think Qld should not be afraid to stand alone in the masses for doing the moral thing!!
