I have written to all sorts of bodies and representatives over the last few years about this issue. I want the same rights to choose VAD should I ever be in the position to need to as other Australians. To force anyone to suffer in an oh so personal world of pain is effectively to support the torture of someone at their most vulnerable and simply can not continue. Palliative care can do much but sadly is not always sufficient to the task. This right to choose would remove the fear and allow people and their loved ones time to do what they want and need to.
