Submitter Comments:

This introduction of this bill will totally undermine the value of human life. It informs all of us that it is better to die than to allow nature take its course. It will ensure that hundreds of elderly people will decide to end their life rather than be perceived as 'a burden' to society. It will ensure that those struggling with mental anguish, or a chronic disability, will be reminded that they are no longer welcome in our new and brave society - a society that is getting closer and closer to the madness of Germany in the 30's.

Ironic that whilst we pretend to espouse ideals of human value and human dignity we would rather bestow on each other the ending befitting a family pet, rather than an holistic, palliative end in a suitable environment. This will let all of us know loud and clear that if you are struggling with a terminal disease (and fyi mental health is not a terminal disease) of any sort, please do be so kind and save us our hospital beds and health dollar and be done with it. State funded depopulation at its very finest
