I strongly believe that individuals with chronic &/or terminal diseases should be given the right to choose to die with dignity, rather than be forced to endure ongoing physical, mental &/or emotional disease/disability whilst living with the knowing that their time is limited, & that they're being forced to suffer until death finally claims them.

Why is it that folk think its ok, that it's kind & humane, to give euthanasia to animals so that their suffering isn't prolonged, yet deny the right to choose how they wish to transition, to informed individual humans who dying?
