First of all it looks to me like this Committee has already made up its mind as to where it stands in relation to supporting the Voluntary Assisted Dying Bill , otherwise why not have a section for comment on this view.

Why is it that we have to assist people to committ suicide, because that is what this bill is really all about . Science today is quite capable of relieving ones pain and thus provide a "comfortable death".The governments energy should be directed towards providing the necessary funds and easy accessibility to pallative care and the like , to enable people to have a "peaceful"and what is a dignified death not an assisted suicide..

Helping people to kill themselves is of course the easy way out. Just think you do not have to worry anymore about that person{ usually a family member }, no longer have to spend money time and effort on them - quickly let him die so that i can go out and enjoy myself again!!!

i think that those people that are so sick or in so much pain that they just want to die , and want to be assisted in dying should be pushed to pallative care , paid for by the government if they can`t afford it, The govenments function is to save and protect life , not assist in ending it.
