Re: I oppose the "Voluntary Assisted Dying" Bill

Dear Health Committee Members,

If a school leaving child needs assistance with deciding their future course of life, do you offer them counselling that will direct them to become contributors to society or do you offer them to end their lives? If a person is disillusioned in life, do you help that person to end his life or do you offer counselling? If you are not able to offer support in a direction that gives that person an opportunity to be a contributor to society, think again about ending that life. They need our help and support not a termination of a precious life which with all of our scientific advances, we cannot give life to a blade of grass, let alone a human being of exquisite and unique design. A handful of people who want to play God are being paid by the public to work for our benefit. This bill is treason.

Sincerely,
Graham S Taylor
