Submitter Comments:

I am very saddened that our society has determined that a life ended is seen as a 'kindness'. Instead of providing appropriate palliative care (increasing funding), people think their only option in the face of real pain and suffering, is to end their life. Doctors do not support this bill as it is antithetical to their commitment to healing and preservation of life. No doctor should be forced to participate in assisted dying if it is against their conscience. Please reconsider this very dangerous bill which places more vulnerable people at risk.
