Re: I oppose the "Voluntary Assisted Dying" Bill

Dear Health Committee Members,

If you don't have the inclination to consider that this (along with legalised abortion) is the thin edge of the wedge, please consider the following:-

Doctors who consciously object to being party to this slaughter of the elderly will be obligated to refer them to someone who will. Are you ready for the numbers of good, competent doctors who will resign rather than be party to this? I am not a doctor, BUT I saw the face of a train driver standing on a railway platform with tears streaming down his face. The look of shock and horror and utter devastation that was on his face will stay with me forever....he had just run over a person who had jumped in front of his train... it seems to me that assisting someone to commit suicide is not something that you should even be considering..... and the fact that you are proposing to lie about the cause of death on the death certificate indicates to me that deep down you know that what I am saying is true. And even if you never have a twinge of conscience about it while on earth, you'll get to stand before God one day to give an account of what you did. Please consider. Sincerely. Marilyn Smith

Sincerely,
Marilyn Smith
