I support the right of individuals to chose their own end if the circumstances warrant it. I certainly would want to be able to do that myself if I was incapacitated to the extent that only pain and suffering was left to me but I had to be kept alive due to a law. I believe that many others fighting for this right to die with dignity feel the same way. I have seen a person drugged up on morphine for the pain of terminal cancer, it was almost unbearable for his family and lacked dignity for the person to be like that when there was no hope whatsoever of survival.
