as a avid recreational hunter for food i would like to see a tag system maybe a small fee that would allow the taking of crocodiles for personal consumption 1 - if there is a fee it should not be out of reach for the average joe2- a size limit should be for medium to large crocs 3- a system similar to the u.s.a. alligator hunting /control4- any tag fees can go back to departments for monitoring populations5-while the taking of eggs helps to control the population. it does not control large crocs getting larger also this is only beneficial in the areas close to where the eggs are removed from
