

Inquiry into Crocodile Control and Conservation Bill 2025

Submission No: 52

Submitted by: [REDACTED]

Publication: Making the submission public but withholding your name

Attachments: No attachment

Submitter Comments:

There is absolutely no reason to bring in a bill to cull crocs. There is no scientific evidence to prove that crocs are a problem in our waterways and should be controlled. The number of croc and human related incidence is very low for the number of crocs in our water systems and most cases end up being the humans fault. We have taken over croc land but are surprised when we see them. Crocs play a massive part in our ecosystem which is even more of a reason to save these beautiful creatures.