I am very grateful for the scheme and use it religiously. The fact that I can arrange for a home collection is particularly appreciated. I do feel that more education is required and partnering more with NGO's such as EcoMarines Foundation, would assist with this from a young age. Kids will get their parents to recycle, but without sufficient funding, that NGO is struggling to thrive. Far too many still place general recycling into the red bins, and it's highly slanted to soft plastics, which there is no option available since red cycle stopped accepting plastics. The other option is fines for sending recycling to landfill.
