To whom it may concern,

I understand that your government is considering changing the laws toward surrogacy. I have worked in the world of surrogacy since 1998, first as a gestational surrogate (twice) and then as an independent agency owner and now as the co owner of Infertility Answers, Inc. Might I suggest that you consider the laws of Florida in the USA? Florida has excellent statutes in place regarding Gestational and Traditional Surrogacy. Although I am not an attorney, (but you can contact Robert Terenzio at Robert-repro@hotmail.com who is an assisted reproductive attorney Reproductive Alternatives in the state of Florida for legal questions) I do know quite a bit about the matching and relationship management of Intended Parents and Surrogates. Infertility Answers, Inc and Surrogacy 101 are both sites that support Intended Parents and Surrogates. Please feel free to contact either Robert Terenzio or myself regarding your surrogacy questions as you contemplate changes in your own laws.

All my best,
Sharon LaMothe
