TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Please consider this submission into the "Fly in, fly out and other long distance commuting work practices in regional Queensland" inquiry.

I commute to work in my own vehicle 610 kilometres round trip. This is my choice as it is with many other people however it is only this way because the mining companies are stripping the communities of everything and leaving nothing for people to have a comfortable living environment in these towns.

I don't have any concerns for my self personally however I am concerned for others who are not able to live in the community in which they work or work in the community in which they live.

Companies need to put back into the communities by providing employment, building facilities, housing and helping families to be able to live where they work and not have to travel.

Regards

Wayne Anstey
