

Date: Wednesday, 20 May 2015 3:50:34 PM
Importance: Low

---

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Please consider this submission into the "Fly in, fly out and other long distance commuting work practices in regional Queensland" inquiry.

FIFO is the ideal way to travel to work, living in a mining town that has no facilities for my family such as hospital and schools is not an option I like to take. I feel that people who live in these remote community's are putting their job before their family. Being able to FIFO gives the best of both worlds, good money and a safe family life. I have done FIFO , DIDO and living at a mining community with my family.

Only concerns is not being able to get home quickly in an emergency, not that this has happened to me before. Most companies that I have worked for will go out of their way to get people home in these cases but usually it takes time to get them home.

I believe that drive in drive out from long distances should be avoided where possible and FIFO put in place to reduce fatigue issues.

Regards

Andrew Telfer

