TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Please consider this submission into the "Fly in, fly out and other long distance commuting work practices in regional Queensland" inquiry.

I have done it and found it to be the most effective way to destroy your social life and sever family ties, especially in remote areas with poor communication options. It brings nothing to local communities it just didn't work for me at all and I have no plans of doing it again

It removes job opportunities for locals and causes a burden to the local community

Remove tax incentives and subsidies, don't allow deduction for travel, don't reward companies for employing FIFO. I can't claim driving to work why should a company be able to claim flying their employees? I am not saying that it should be stopped altogether as there is a place for it however I can't understand why it would be encouraged.

Regards

Luke Pohlmann
