TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Please consider this submission into the "Fly in, fly out and other long distance commuting work practices in regional Queensland" inquiry.

When travelling on some airlines the FIFO workers travelling home have not showed or changed their clothes from work and other travellers have to sit with them. Home life is different a lot of couples donot last.

This practise is not good for local communities as they break down. The locals should have the first offer to jobs. You should not have to relocate to get a job when the jobs are hear.

No 100% FIFO at Mines if you choose to live in a major city you find your own job. Companies should take local workers first and not supply FIFO deals at reduced costs.
