Hello

I would like to submit an objection to UBER. My husband and I are ordinary people working hard to provide for our children and our retirement years. We have never drawn on the Government for any benefits and have always operated within the law and its boundaries. We have brought up our children with the 'hard work' ethic and led them to believe that honesty and enthusiasm coupled with respect for people and their belongings are life lessons.

All of these life lessons have now left our family deflated and cynical, mocking to the very core of our souls.

I am of course speaking of the double standards that the Government is employing in relation to Uber. Clearly they are breaking the law and flouting it in the faces of the system we believed so strongly in. How can the government control the Taxi licences on such a tight regulation yet allow Uber 'free reign'. I believe that the Queensland Government has shown no respect for the industry that it created and the legitimate licence holders. I am appalled by the extension until August next year to look into the illegal activities of Uber- meanwhile our hard earned investment is in free fall. We are unable to sell our taxi licences due to no demand and we are stuck in orbit until the government makes up its mind – A government that really can't seem to make a decision about anything.
