The price of petrol, as is well known, effects every facet of our daily lives. However, more importantly our total reliance on petroleum products is going to bring our entire society to its knees in the not too distant future (according to some experts fuel could run out in as little as 3-10 years). Why then, have we as a society and government allowed alternative fuel solutions to be purchased by fuel giants only to have these squashed and hidden away? These solutions could potentially liberate our entire society and could go a long way to making Australia a competing force on the world market once again - this being predominantly through the effect over the economy and the over-all reduction in the cost of living.

Please, please allow these fuel alternatives the light of day - get them out there ASAP so that we can move forward and rid ourselves of the shackles called oil and the middle-east.
