Dear Sir/Madam

It seems that all your extreme impost legislation must be composed in a secret location, with the only consultation being with some ranking member of the Green Socialist Party, who has no interest in being fair; but only to oppose anything and everything, and write a myriad of laws to try and cripple anyone on the land.

That has to be what it is, because the end result that you would achieve by this draconian legislation, to put it politely, is a waste of everyone's time and money, with absolutely no benefit to the reef.

So, what is this all about? What expert came up with this plan and said this is what we have to do to control these habitual "environmental vandals"?

On our farm we already adhere to strict standards, where any runoff is contained within our boundaries.

Countless hours have been spent testing for overuse of fertilizer, so there is no likelihood of any kind of contaminants.

If you really wanted to contain sediment, you could build a series of dams on the Fitzroy River system. The shortest river system in Australia with the largest flow out to sea.

Generations would benefit, the reef would benefit, Australia would benefit.

The things that make the most sense never get done.

Your faithfully

Peter Gregory Hornick
