The anti castle law hobbyists are forgetting the one and only major metric deciding this law, if you do not put your self at risk of being harmed, then you will not be harmed, its crystal clear, even to the low IQ perpetrators.

If there is a risk of being severely injured or fataly wounded, then this risk becomes a deterrent. If one chooses to ignor the deterrent and are subjected to a violent reaction from the victim they have violated, clearly they have no justification to seek any empathy whatsoever, neither should their family members believe the injury or death of the perpetrator is unjustified.

Crime will dramatically fall in high burglary areas.
