

Electoral Laws (Restoring Electoral Fairness) Amendment Bill 2025

Submission No: 005
Submission By: Jessica Seeleither
Publication: Making the submission and your name public

As a democracy, voting is the basis of our country. Incarcerated people are still citizens. Participation in the democracy via voting is a human right that I believe is one of our pillars of Australian law and government. Prisoners must not be stripped of their voting rights, it's not a reward for good behaviour it's a basic right. Punishment is not the way we have built our democracy, and disallowing prisoners from voting would be straying from this.