The only change I would make is that an Australian resident should be allowed to obtain a licence not just a Citizen. The reason is that many just remain residents due to costs and the run around to become a citizen. I would add in Police and any work place Cat H must complete a minimum of 6 qualification shoots per year and have a good set of minimum requirments such as having to run 50m draw and fire 5 rounds in a tight group as an example along with drills such as draw and shoot 5 rounds in a tight groop within 3 seconds. This would train police along with armed security etc with Cat H to train for the worst but be skilled to ensure no civilians are injured while under high stress. Rifles used for work such as Police, council, national parks etc should be required to complete a minimim of 4 qualifcation shoots per year. Many already do but this change would make it a legal requirment.
