David Crisafullis' new proposal "Adult crime, adult time" to the Making Queensland Safer Bill has been proven to not work in many studies internationally and domestically. This proposal is being pushed with the usual tactic of 'fear-mongering' from the LNP. If the parliament were to talk to locals about programs that are already running in regional areas and get behind them with funding and adding the organisations that have proven successful to the resort options of youth crime. Also if the state government is happy to lock up youth offenders aged 10-16 for adult time, the adult time needs to be included on actual criminals such as; pedophiles, and abusers.
