Submitter Comments:

Notwithstanding the participants are not convicted the participants are charged and on bail. They are free to live their lives and prepare for upcoming trial. The consideration of their needs and the case and danger they may present has been made by the presiding magistrate on granting bail. This Judicial consideration must be respected. There is no need to gather data and impose electronic devices on those who are not yet convicted of a crime especially youth. I do not agree with a furthering of this trial.
