Subject: Criminal Law (Historical Homosexual Convictions Expungement) Bill 2017
Date: Thursday, 25 May 2017 4:24:07 PM

I am apposed to this bill. While it is not illegal now to be homosexual, it was in the past and the established law was broken.

It's not a matter of how anyone sees it today, it's simply a matter of the law was broken at that time and those who broke the law were punished for doing just that breaking the law. If you approve this bill then you should expunge & back date every other law that has since been removed or reversed. It's not fair or reasonable to give this special consideration to homosexuals and not other people for other offences.

Regards,
Mark Sznajder.
