Dear sir, I fully support the present situation, where a voter must show current ID to vote and I reject the submission that a voter can provide a stat dec or similar to vote. This is very insecure and open to voter fraud.

What happens when I show up at the booth only to find out that I've already voted by providing a stat dec. (ie. Not me, but a fraudulent person stealing my identity).

This could even lead to kidnapping for extra votes and abuse of non-English speaking citizens whose carers disagree with their opinions.

The field is ripe with snares. I impress upon you the need for an open and honest system to work with. Some people will do anything they are allowed to do to rout the system including fake stat decs.

Cheers

Andrew Jackson
