I am confused. Surely you can't think that taking away the enrolment ID from Voters is going to encourage honesty.

Someone could vote at several booths under several names therefore falsifying results and you would not even know who they really were. Invisible!!!

Why not have an electoral card, with multiple years printed on it, that could be used more than once but crossed out, each year used?

Please do not open up more possible loopholes for corruption. It is not hard to use the electoral cards.

Thanks for listening,

Sharon Webster
