Dear Sir

I would like to air my disapproval of this bills push to remove voter proof of identity requirements for both state and local elections. We certainly need to be able to prove that people are who they claim to be.

Proof of identity is needed to ensure the electoral system retains its integrity and fairness by reducing the chance of voter fraud which is demanded and expected by the community.

This move to remove proof of identity in the Queensland electoral system flies in the face of the current worldwide movement to improve security measures rather remove security. This whole idea seems to be utter lunacy that can only lead to the breakdown of the electoral system opening it up to abuse and fraud.

Your sincerely

David Gordon
