If people have been allowed to vote for years, they should continue to be allowed to vote. Especially the very people who fought for us, both white and indigenous, who can no longer afford to pay for or indeed never had proof of birth that modern society has access to - this is the governments fault not theirs - they should be allowed to vote as they are the very ones suffering because of the government policies. There will be many because of whatever circumstances who will get caught up - even having had their purse stolen recently - and it's not acceptable.
